THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CON- VENTION.

A National Convention of the Republican party will meet at Chicago, Wednesday, the 24 day of June next, for the nomination of candidates to be supported for President and Vice President at the next election.

Republicans, and all who co-operate with them in supporting the nominee of the party, are invited to choose two delegates from each Congressional District, four at large from each State, two from each Territory, and two from the District of Columbia, to represent them in the Convention.

placing in nomination an electoral ticket of ten electors to be supported by the party at the next Presidential election, and also to select twenty

The only thing that puts a limit to the Democratic greed for stealing seats in Congress, is the question "will it pay."

While talking about dark horses on the Democratic side, no one has yet been hard enough on the party to name Montgomery Blair.

For more than the hundredth time Mr.
Tilden is reported not to be a candidate, and yet he continues to succeed in capturing delegations.

Mr. Tilden is getting very considerable He says he would like to run against Grant or Blaine, but would not run against Washington, Sherman, or Edmunds. Sammy is giving the Democrats a fly. But it won't win. It would be a pity, however, if he fails to get the nomination should Grant or Blaine get the nomination at Chicago. His defeat would be overwhelming and his Presidential ambition put to an end.

The Harper's Bazar of last week contains the following notice of the death of the lamented Miss Goodell: "Miss Lavinia Goodell, who died at Janesville, Wisconsin, on the 31st ult., at the age of forty-one, was formerly connected with Harper's Bazar, and was very highly esteemed for her amiable and womanly qualities, as well as for her mental powers. Some four years ago she was admitted to the practice of law in Wisconsin, having thoroughly prepared herself, and was quite successful. She was a born lawyer, and was distinguished for her logical and argumentative mind. Miss Goodell had a wide circle of friends in New York, who appreciated her modest and winning manners, and who will be grieved to hear of her death. She was the daughter of the late Rev. William Goodell, the well known abolitionist.

The more it is discussed, the stronger becomes the reasons for the organization of a "Court of Pensions," or something of that kind to relieve Congressmen of the disagreeable and perplexing business of acting as claim agents. Every man or woman who wants a pension thinks he or she must write to a member of Congress about it, and the result is Congressmen are almost continually called upon to look after some applications for pensions. The labor involved in the attempt to answer one-fourth part of the letters received on the subject of pensions, or to pay any attention to matters in the pension department is laborious beyond endurance. A Congressman who goes into the business of looking after these claims will find out that he dearly earns his salary and pays a high price for all the honor there is in the position he holds.
The plan suggested by which to relieve members of the great annoyance to which they are subjected, is to establish a "Court of Pensions" to consist of three lawyers, whose term of office should be three years.
The duty of the court is to consist in examining all claims for pensions, or increase or arrears of pensions. Its decision is to be final, except in cases of fraud, or where the disability for which the pension was granted, has been removed. If the case is not provided for by existing law, the court is to examine it, and, if found equitable, to recommend to Congress the granting of the applicant's petition. No laws are to be passed except on such certificate.
The objection to this plan is that it permits the reopening of the court of all disallowed pension cases, and this would be a terror to the government. The pension business is becoming a serious matter.
There is no telling where it will stop.
Already the government is paying out tens of millions annually, and the amount is on the increase.

The dispute as to who shall make oleomargarine by a certain process, is waxing hot and growing interesting. Oleomargarine is almost as great a puzzle as 13, 15, 14. Some praise it for its purity, sweetness, and healthiness, and others denounce it for its miserable taste, its sickly qualities, and general impurity. So we have this difference regarding oleomargarine, and by men skilled in chemistry. There is no doubt that many good chemists, can not tell good oleomargarine from bad butter.

They probably could not taste any difference between the sweetest butter and that which affords a safe retreat for flies and hairs. All persons are not blessed with palates and noses alike, and even the Subcommittee of Congress which went to New York to examine the oleomargarine manufactured in that city, returned with oleomargarine flying in their banner. They were wined and dined at Delmonico's by the makers of oleomargarine, and of course they found it good—better than any butter that was ever made from cream. But there is no doubt there is what might be called good oleomargarine, and there should be a distinction between butter and that artificial. One should not be confounded with the other. If persons can take sound, sweet and healthy fat and make a good artificial oleomargarine, let them do it, but not call it butter. Let them label it oleomargarine, and advertise it as such, and people will not be deceived. To be honest about it, this is the way to do, and no deception will be practiced, except probably in the character of the oleomargarine.
There are people who want butter made of cream and made well, and are willing to pay for such an article, and there may be others whose tastes are not educated, and who want something cheap, who would be satisfied with oleomargarine.
There is a great deal of cheating going on in the various articles of food, and oleomargarine has again opened the door, not because the article may be bad, but because it is thrown upon the market as butter. This is a fraud, and should not be tolerated.

ANTI-THIRD TERMERS.

We concede to every man the right to express his honest convictions in politics or anything else. But in this he should be consistent. There should be a fairness in his methods, and an honesty in his purpose. Men differ, and they have a right to differ, as to whether it is proper to nominate General Grant. Honest and sincere Republicans might believe that he would not make the strongest candidate, but honest and sincere Republicans would support him if he were nominated. What a patriotic and earnest Republican wants is the success of the principles of the Republican party. He is willing to adopt the means which will secure this success. He is willing to make a sacrifice somewhat of his own opinions that the party may achieve an aggressive victory.
He is willing to pledge himself to cordially endorse and vigorously support the nominee of the National Convention, provided the candidate is a man worthy the honor. A patriot man, a true and unselfish Republican, stands ready to do these things.
There are a great many good Republicans honest and brave, sincere and unselfish, who would rather see Washburne nominated than General Grant, or Edmunds than Blaine or Sherman, and yet they do not propose to kick over the traces if their pet candidate can't win at Chicago.
There is an honesty and a fairness about this course of action which commands respect and dignifies the men connected with it. But the anti-third termers, whose headquarters are in St. Louis, and who have taken upon themselves to call an anti-third term convention, do not belong to this class. In the main they are men who supported Blaine, in 1876. They are personal enemies of General Grant—were then, are now—and they propose to make war against him at the expense of an attempt to defeat the party.
They belong to a set of political schemers who generally bolt if they can't have things their own way. They belong to a detested clan, and are a set of men who have no settled political convictions.
They wanted to hate somebody, and the trouble between Grant and Blaine gave them an opportunity to vent their ill bred feelings against the General.

This accounts for the milk in the ocase-out. The main-spring of the motives of these men is not altogether out of sight. Their course in making an open war against General Grant, and in calling a convention to condemn the third-term movement, is based wholly on personal spite and shallow-mindedness. We apprehend their course will come to grief. There is common sense and intelligence enough in the Republican party to overcome any influence that can be exerted by the St. Louis convention.
Thousands of those who prefer Blaine, or Washburne, or Sherman, to General Grant, will show their devotion to principles and to common manhood, by standing firmly and boldly by the nomination the Chicago Convention will make, for the country may rest assured that it will give the people a good candidate. There is a sentiment which is rapidly increasing, that every Republican must be on guard this year. The sign of the times warn the party not to sleep nor forget its duty, and when the Chicago Convention puts its candidate in the field, there will be such a rallying around the nominee as was never seen since 1860.

BUTTER MAKERS.

Great Agitation Among the Butter Makers of New York.

New York, April 14—The butter merchants of this city are seeking an alliance with the dairymen of the country, that Congressmen may be influenced to enact laws to prevent the adulteration of butter and to regulate the sale of oleomargarine.
The manufacturers of oleomargarine were so attentive to the Congressmen in their recent visit that the dairymen did not have an opportunity to present their case.

MILITARY.

DELAWARE, Wis., April 14—A military company, to be known as the Delaware Guards, was organized and mustered into the service this afternoon, by Colonel N.
Smith, of the Governor's staff. Fred B.
Goodrich, was elected captain, Charles T.
Isbarn, first lieutenant, and Menso Vedder, second lieutenant. The company has fifty-five men, and is composed of strong, young blood, which will take pride in becoming thoroughly drilled. An application will be made to have them assigned to the first battalion.

MISSOURI.

The Republican State Convention
Elect Grant Delegates to Chicago.

ST. LOUIS, April 14—The Republican State Convention at Sedalia was a complete triumph for Grant from beginning to end. There had been an attempt to work up an anti-Grant sentiment strong enough at best to prevent instructions; but it failed entirely. The opposition was small and scattered, and unable to make any impression on the convention. The only fight in the convention was against Chauncey I. Filley, who was presented as a candidate for delegate at large.
He was personally obnoxious to some of the delegates, and the man named in the opposition to him is pronounced for Grant as Filley. After a little wrangling on this subject, Filley carried the day, and everything went off harmoniously and enthusiastically. A notable feature of the convention was the number of German delegates and the number of speeches by prominent Germans of the State, pledging the German vote to Grant and repudiating the bolt threatened by Schurz, Henderson, and others.

IOWA.

The Republican State Convention
Endorses Blaine.

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 14—The convention, which held its sessions in Moore's Opera House to-day, and sent twenty-two delegates instructed to use all honorable means to secure the nomination at Chicago of James G. Blaine, was the largest ever assembled in Iowa. Looking down upon it from the rostrum one could not but be struck with the exceptionally fine appearance of this body of representative Iowans and the large presence of young men.
There were few old men, and a majority of the foremost delegates were under 30, certainly under 35 years of age.
The gathering was a good advertisement to those who looked upon it of the wealth, intelligence, and the Republicanism of ninety-nine counties of Iowa. The temper of the convention was good, too, as it could not be otherwise, where a majority of seven hundred selected from a minority of a hundred and fifty its presiding officer. Perhaps, too, the delegates caught something of the inspiration of fairness and generosity from the full view in which they sat of the splendid oil paintings of Blaine and Grant on either side of the stage, and from the memory of the fact that both these illustrious Republicans had spoken to Iowa audiences from the same stand where the gavel of the Chairman called this convention to order, for it was in this hall and upon that stage that Grant made his famous Des Moines speech on the public school question in 1874, and in this same hall Blaine has spoken.

THE INVESTIGATION.

The West Point Outrage the Topic of Conversation at Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 14—The investigation of the West Point outrage is just now attracting more attention of public men here than any other subject except the Presidential canvass. At the White House, at the War Department, and among members of Congress, every development is watched with the greatest interest, and the outrage is the topic of constant discussion in the cloak room. A Democratic Senator remarked to-day that he felt as if he could not vote another dollar of money for the support of the Military Academy. It had been developed that this young colored man had been compelled to live a life of complete solitude as if he were confined in prison, for no other reason than that he had black blood in his veins. He was in favor of investigation of his treatment by Congress, and thought the civil rights bill should be repealed if the government did not enforce it in the school it supported. Senator Bruce is to be absent for several days and the subject will not come up during his absence, but there will be a long debate upon it before the adjournment of Congress.

FATAL TRAPEZE.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14—A terrible accident occurred at the performance this afternoon of the combined shows of Cooper & Bailey and Adam Forepaugh, who are now exhibiting here. One of the sensational features has been a daring act by the Davene family of acrobats, who are well known from their performances in the Kirkly Brothers' "Black Crook" company during the early part of the season.
Mrs. Davene hangs by her feet to a trapeze forty feet in the air and holds her husband, who is suspended head downwards. Their daughter Lucy, a pretty girl of 19, whose stage name is Mile. Lotto, ascends a pedestal thirty feet distant and swings on a trapeze by her knees until she has acquired the necessary momentum, when she loses her hold, flies through the air and is caught by her father. On the first performance of the act last Monday, the girl missed her father's grasp three times, but fortunately fell in a net stretched below.
To-day while endeavoring to get the momentum, she struck her head against the pedestal causing a frightful wound, and throwing her senseless to the ground, twenty feet below. There were upwards of 5,000 people present at the time, and a terrible scene followed. "My daughter! Oh God, my daughter is killed!" cried the wretched mother as she bleeding form was carried beneath her Physicians were summoned, and pronounced her suffering from internal injuries, and possibly concussion of the spine. She vomited a great amount of blood, and no hopes are entertained of her recovery.

ARKANSAS.

The Indications are that Grant will Capture the State.

LITTLE ROCK, April 14—The county convention met to-day to choose delegates to the State Convention. There was no contest except as to who should go, it being unanimous for Grant. Eleven delegates were elected, with Senator Clayton as chairman, all rock rooted Grant men.
The only Sherman man there was Emerson, the special agent just in from Washington to work up the Secretary's boom. There were no Blaine men there at all. This is the key to the situation, and it is admitted that as goes this county so goes the whole State.

SAMMY DECLINES.

WASHINGTON, April 14—A special to The Evening Bulletin, says a Democrat of prominence, who has held a high position in the councils of his party, informed your correspondent to-day that Tilden has written a letter to be read at the New York Democratic convention at Syracuse, declining to be a candidate before the Cincinnati convention and withdrawing his name. The reason assigned for this course is the condition of his health. This same gentleman says Tilden prepared a letter two months ago withdrawing his name, but intercession of personal friends prevented it from being made public.

LIKE A HERO.

CINCINNATI, April 14—It became known this morning that Alex. Wilson left his home last night to go to a Covington fire, telling his wife that there were many children in the adjacent houses and he would help get them out. Since then he has not been seen. Search was made in the debris of the fallen walls, and at 1:45 this afternoon his dead body was found. He had gone into a little house to assist in saving children, and was there caught by one of the falling walls and crushed to death. He was an estimable man and proprietor of the only public library in Covington.

PARIS GREEN.

LOGANSPORT, Ind April 14—James Austin, a worthy citizen, yesterday drank some coffee from a cup which had previously contained Paris green, and he died several hours after. His sufferings were intense. The poison had been used on easter day in coloring eggs for the little girls, and thoughtlessly placed in the cupboard by the children. The doctors were unable to alleviate his sufferings.

CHARITIES.

MADISON, April 14—At a meeting of the State Board of Charities and Reforms to-day the following officers were elected: President, Andrew E. Elmore; Vice President, W. M. Reed; Secretary, Rev.
A. O. Wright.

LIGHTNING.

morning, and lightning struck a dwelling owned and occupied by Phil Check, and killed his son Robert, aged 17 years.

The Sacred Fire of the Pueblos.

Santa Fe (N. M.) Correspondence St. Louis Globe Democrat.

The Pueblos claim that their Montezuma was born through the immediate conception of an Indian maiden of their own tribe in the village of Pecos, about thirty-five miles distant from the city.
While a youth he did not exhibit any extraordinary qualities, but upon reaching manhood he showed himself to be a great hunter and possessed of supernatural powers. After dwelling with the tribe for a long period, and performing many miraculous deeds, he departed, going southward. On the eve of his journey he is relaxed to have built a sacred fire which he told his people to keep burning until his return. Although this was long centuries ago, it is said that the Indians have scrupulously observed the injunction, and have never allowed the fire to die out.

They have continuously through successive generations, kept the slumbering embers aglow. At least this is their story, and it is largely believed, especially by those who have seen the fire glimmering in their old abode temple. In 1837, the pueblo, or town of Pecos, was sold. It was on a Spanish grant, and at that period the Indians removed the sacred fire with great care to Taos, where it is still burning and viewed with reverential awe.
Some of the Indians of the present day have so much confidence in the return of Montezuma that they get out upon their house-tops every morning with the rising of the sun and look anxiously into the far distance for his coming. Even though many of the Pueblo Indians openly embrace the Christian religion, yet they maintain their faith in Montezuma, whom they regard as their savior and sovereign.
They are a docile and industrious people.
As communities they are far more prosperous and live far better than a majority of the natives.

LIT BY ELECTRICITY.

The Town of Wabash, Indiana, the First Town in the World to Use It Exclusively—The Test Pronounced Satisfactory.

Cincinnati Gazette.

As the clock struck 8, four Brush electric lamps, of three thousand candle power, put forth a noonday light extending one mile in diameter. The lamps being suspended midway of the iron trestle over the court house, which towers 200 feet above the business part of town, were furnished with electricity from a No. 4 generator driven by a seven horse power engine.
According to contract, the light was to light up one mile in diameter from the court house, and equal to a gas burner 2,640 feet from the light. Men were scattered at different parts of the city, and reported it satisfactory. At Urbana, five miles north, the light is reported as being beautiful. The test has given general satisfaction.

As Wabash is the first city in America to adopt the electric light for general illumination, the announcement brought people from all sections, and at 7 o'clock fully 10, 000 were present. Among the number were nineteen councils of adjacent towns and the mayors of Marion and North Manchester, and now that the undertaking has proved successful, the representatives of the other towns will place the subject of electric light before their people for immediate use. Mr. F. C. Phillips, the electrician who superintended the construction of the apparatus, was entirely satisfied with the light.

As this was the first test, and sale of the stationary engine and other preliminaries are not all arranged, the city will not be permanently lit for three or four weeks at the end of which time, however, gas will be unknown here for lighting purpose.

A New Industry.

From the New York Times.

He who invents a new industry is entitled to the gratitude or indignation of his fellow men, as the case may be. There is a Chicago man who has devised a new use for the "ulster," and a new means of living in ease and luxury. Whether he has earned gratitude or indignation is a doubtful question, except so far as the Chicago hotel-keepers are concerned. These notice him with great violence; but this fact gives him a plausible claim to public admiration. He has certainly shown that an ulster, on the back of an able and ingenious man, is far more profitable than a quantity of shares in an average gold mine. When we remember how useless the ulster usually is during at least nine months of the year, it is evident that an invention which not only makes the ulster a source of profit from October to June, but which powerfully stimulates the manufacture of that garment, must meet with very warm approval from hundreds of grateful men.

It has long been known that when an ulster of ordinary length is worn in connection with a pair of boots and a hat, all other garments are superfluous. Of course, there is always a certain degree of comfort in the active possession of a shirt, and the knowledge that one has on a pair of trousers gives him a feeling of self-confidence in windy weather which no amount of mere ulster can convey. Still, so far as public propriety is concerned, a man equipped with hat, boots, and ulster can take his walks abroad with a clear conscience, without attracting the attention of the police.

It is this fact which lies at the foundation of the new industry which has recently flourished in Chicago. A leading manufacturer of such are notoriously all the inhabitants of western towns—found himself last month without any means of support.
Had he been an Ohio man, he would have immediately accepted a consulship; but in the circumstances this was impossible.
It is true that he might have found work to do, but he had been so long in the habit of living on money borrowed from the shylocks of the east that his spirit revolted from the idea of working. In this emergency he remembered his ulster, and he decided to use it as instrument for spoiling the Chicago hotel keepers.

He began operations by equipping himself with a small bag, and by putting on his ulster unaccompanied by trousers.
Thus arrayed, he entered a Chicago hotel, and mentioning that he had just arrived in the city, and intended to start for St. Louis early in the morning, he took a room, and went to bed. The next morning the hotel was aroused by the violent ringing of the new guest's bell. The servant who answered the bell found him in a state of great excitement, in consequence of a robbery which he said had been perpetrated upon him. He demanded to see the landlord, to whom he complained that his room had been feloniously entered during the night, and that his only pair of trousers, which cost $15, and in one pocket of which was his purse, containing $15 and a through ticket to St. Louis had been taken.

The landlord was greatly grieved, and a thorough inspection of the room conclusively showed that the guest was wholly devoid of trousers. The conclusion that he had really been robbed was inevitable, and the landlord foresaw that his house would be denounced as a den of thieves.
He therefore, like a wise man, begged the battered stranger not to be annoyed, and assured him that his losses would be made good. A supply of trousers from a ready-made clothing establishment was brought in, and the man selected a satisfactory pair.
The landlord then gave him $15 and a ticket to St. Louis, and as a further peace offering, handed him a receipted bill for supper, lodging and breakfast. Thus the reputation of the hotel was saved, and the partner of the ulster returned to his lodgings, having made $15 in cash, a ticket worth several dollars more, and a new pair of trousers.

There are many hotels of different degrees of excellence in Chicago and to twenty-two of these the baggage of the ulster and a fronsless visit. Twenty-two times did the astute man complain to the landlord that he had been robbed. The result was the collection of twenty-two pairs of desirable trousers, of sums of money varying from five to fifteen dollars, and amounting to two hundred dollars, and a series of tickets to all sorts of places.
Each landlord was so annoyed on finding that a robbery had been committed at his place that he kept the matter carefully secret and bribed some of his servants to do the same. Thus the ingenious Chicago man, in the space of little more than a month, lived sumptuously at a variety of hotels free of cost, and accumulating clothing and spending money with the greatest ease.

It was prosperity that ruined him. He fell into the habit of drinking too much champagne, and when under the influence thereof finally made the terrible mistake of being robbed a second time in the Plumber house. The landlord immediately recognized him, and, being a prompt and determined man, informed his guest that he was an impostor, and had never brought no trousers into that room.
Furthermore he seized the unfortunate man's ulster, and, instead of supplying him with trousers, coated his defenseless legs with tar and cotton-battling, and in that deplorable plight cast him out. Still in spite of this failure, the owner of the ulster, deserves the credit of inventing a new industry, and had he the wisdom to abandon Chicago in time, and to select as his prey the landlords of other towns he might now be rich and prosperous.

HEADQUARTERS!

FOR

BALTIMORE

BRIEFLETS.

—April half gone.

—Prayers at the churches to-night.

—The dust in the streets is getting very "dy."

—The militiamen gather to-night as usual.

—Jo Bostwick has a merrier laugh than ever too-day. It's a girl.

—There will be no session of the Round Table next Saturday night.

—The Temperance Society's dance is to-morrow night, at Young America hall.

—The Guards will decide to-night whether to make their inspection a free-for-all public.

—H. D. McKinney has just returned from the blue grass country. He says the horses are scarce, buyers are plenty and prices are good.

—Justice Brooks is to give his decision in the first tobacco case next Saturday morning. Another case started yesterday afternoon but was adjourned till to-morrow.

—Herbert Lawrence is building for himself a new house next to that of his father. The frame is already up, and it bids fair to be a very cosy, comfortable home.

—The Police Court is doing no business to-day. Not even a tramp to help out the record. Janesville has been remarkably free from criminal doings thus far this year.

—To-morrow afternoon the graduating class of the High School speak their little pieces and get bouquets fired at them. Those who desire to get good seats should go early, as there will be a crowd.

—Mrs. F. A. Lawrence expects to start next Tuesday for Colorado, to join her husband, who has been there some time for his health, and who, we are glad to know, is improving steadily and surely.

—E. E. Poppleton, of Cleveland, Ohio, son-in-law of Andrew Palmer, Esq., is in the city, and was among the callers at the Gazette office to-day. Andrew Palmer, Jr., of Albert Lea, Minn., is also in the city.

—Thomas Leech, the dry goods man, has a word to say to the ladies, which they ought to read. He is selling goods at close figures, and says he will keep at it. That's right. Good goods and low prices will always draw trade.

—D. P. Smith has made some marked improvements in the old Hopkin place, which he has bought, and now has for a home. The grounds, house and all have been so rejuvenated and brightened up as to make the place very attractive.

—Dr. Horne has left upon our table a pair of thill-springs, something entirely new, which promise to meet with a rapid sale. They are simple, and prevent all rattling, and being made of steel will not wear out readily. They seem to be just the thing for the purpose.

—The strong winds of the past few days have tested the telephonic wires pretty thoroughly, and have proved that they have been well put up. Yesterday two wires were blown so as to cross each other, but were speedily straightened out, and so changed that it cannot happen again, and this is the first and only trouble of any kind.

—There was a cry for "help" last night on Main street, and after hunting about it was found to proceed from a man who had fallen into a hole at the rear of Anderson's barber shop, and had then crawled through the basement to the front and was trying to get out there. He had been rattling at the door for an hour or so, but could make no one hear. His arm and leg were bruised somewhat from his fall, but he was not seriously hurt.

—A horrible rumor went the rounds that one of the Temple of Honor stalwarts was taking a "sour mash." His brethren became much exercised thereat, and proceeded to investigate. Several good witnesses asserted stoutly that they saw him take one, but when the final truth of the matter was got at, it was found that it was not a wet "sour mash," but a dry one, it being a cigar of that brand, instead of the usual intoxicant.

—C. E. Jones, of Beloit, has been appointed Quartermaster Sergeant of the First Battalion. The Beloit Guards now have two of Major Britton's staff. Sergeant Jones has a good-sized army of warm personal friends in this city, having lived here for some time, and being employed in the Harris works. He was formerly engineer of the East side fire engine, and the fire lads will be among the foremost of those congratulating him on the new honor conferred. Jones was always a lucky fellow, so lucky in fact that he went through even the great Ashland railroad accident, coming out of the wreck several thousand dollars ahead of the railroad company.

—Now that so many have found out about the magic photograph business, all are entitled to know about it. It is simply a piece of glass with the usual daguer-type border of brass, and the directions are very simple for taking a picture. The subject sits quietly holding the glass before him for a few seconds, and then by breathing on it, his picture appears. We saw a victim the other day strike a pose, brush up his hair, make up a happy smile, and sit gazing at that bit of glass. He was very successful. When he breathed on that glass the outlines of a donkey's head appeared, true as life. The spectators let him off with nicker cigars, it being his first offense.

—Four of the Whitewater Rifles arrived in the city this morning, expecting to drive right on to Beloit to attend the dance, which they thought was to be given by the Beloit Guards this evening. On arriving here they found to their astonishment that the dance was to-morrow night instead of to-night. They accepted the situation gracefully, and made the most of their time by looking about the city, visiting its points of interest, chatting with fellow-militiamen, etc. They will probably visit the armories this evening and see the boys drill, and will return to Whitewater in the morning, as they cannot spare any more time away from home. It's better to be ahead of time than behind time.

ANOTHER MILITIA COMPANY.

Delavan has organized a company of militia and yesterday afternoon fifty-five men were mustered in. The new company is to be known as the Delavan Guards, and is composed mostly of young men, who are ambitious and who will give time, brains and muscle in making a reputation and keeping it. The company is a fine looking body of men, and when uniformed and drilled will doubtless make a pleasing appearance. The following are the officers:

Captain—Frank B. Goodrich.

First Lieutenant—Charles T. Isham.

Second Lieutenant—Menson Vedder.

Captain Goodrich is said to be an excellent drill master. He has served in the 1st Illinois State Guard for one year, and is a young man well fitted for a leader. Lieutenant Vedder saw actual service in the 14th Illinois and in the 153d Illinois. The company propose to secure an armory at once, and will enter into the new work with considerable enthusiasm. They are desirous of being connected with the First Battalion, Major Britton commanding, and will doubtless have their wish granted.

THE DOMINO.

The Domino given by the Merry Club last evening at Cannon's hall proved a fitting close to a happy season. It was largely attended by the members of the Club, and the invited friends filled the gallery and there gazed and guessed. The costumes were varied, and many of them were unique. Smith & Tuckwood's band furnished good music, and Shurtleff furnished an excellent supper. The occasion was a joyous one throughout, and all the arrangements were such as to render it a most successful finale to a series of social gatherings which have served to crowd many an evening with enjoyment to all participants. The Merry Club may well congratulate themselves on all their parties and especially on this closing one.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY FLETCHER & EVANSON, DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 6 o'clock last evening stood at 72 degrees above; at 1 o'clock a. m. to-day at 48 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m. at 38 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m. at 51 degrees above. Cloudy.

One year ago to-day at corresponding hours the thermometer stood at 47, 34, 35, and 49 degrees above;

The indications to-day are for the upper lake region, cloudy weather, with rain or snow, winds shifting to colder northwesterly, and higher barometer.

RETURNING FROM EUROPE.

Miss Ella Carle, who has been absent for nearly two years in Europe, returned to this city yesterday, and is being most cordially greeted by her many friends and former pupils. She has enjoyed her travels abroad greatly, and has doubtless profited thereby, as she is a keen observer, and is a careful student.

Mrs. G. F. Griswold, who went with Miss Carle, is expected to arrive here to-morrow, which will be glad news to her many friends, who have missed her greatly, and who will welcome her gladly.

A NEW POLICE COURT ROOM.

The newly elected Police Justice has decided to change the location of the court room, and has rented the room in the Gazette block, on the second floor, formerly used for a composing room. It is a large, airy room, and is to be fitted up immediately in good shape, painted, calimined, etc. It is understood that the old court room in the postoffice block is to be divided into law offices.

ROCKFORD, ILLINOIS, June 7, 1879.

MESSES J. KELLY & CO., 59 John St., New York City:

Ask your druggist for it.

THE BELOIT GUARDS.

To-morrow evening the Beloit Guards will give a reception concerning which the Free Press says:

Some of the Janesville militia will attend the Guard's reception on Friday night. A letter from Captain Smith, of the Janesville Guards, to Captain McLennan, says: "We held a special meeting last night, and decided that it was too short to forego the anticipated pleasure your company have in store for us."

The reception committee have received communications from the Custer Rifles, of Whitewater, that they will be represented. It is also expected that many of the members of the Rockford Rifles and Freeport Militia will be present. Major Britton, Adj. Newman, Quartermaster Patterson, and Quartermaster Sergeant Jones and others of the battalion staff officers, are expected to be present.

Nearly 500 invitations have been issued, and the prospects are that the attendance will be very large.

LIMA.

—H. J. Bullock is looking for another car of Iowa corn, of which A. O. Hall is to be salesman.

—Geo. Warren has recently purchased three head of fine Holstein cattle. He says it pays to keep good stock.

—Lima has three telegraph students, two of them having graduated. We hope their trade will be a success to them.

—The postoffice still remains in Mr. Hull's, although it was tried hard to remove it.

—F. House has employed H. Robinson to run his peddling wagon, this summer. He is a good boy and we hope he will do well.

—A number of our town boys were over at Whitewater Saturday attending the shooting match.

—Mr. J. Kallion is fast preparing to erect his new house.

—Mrs. C. A. Gould was called to Clayton, New York, Monday to visit her sick father.

—Mr. Cyrus Teetehorn was seen driving his blooded colt through the streets Sunday. He is considered the finest colt in this section.

—Oris Bacon has returned from Monticello, looking hale and hearty. Green county air seems to agree with him.

—Sabbath school was organized at U. B. church last Saturday. Officers elect were as follows:
